Rowell's American Newspaper Direct ary for 1891 puts the circulation of THE CCANOKE TIMES above that of any other paper in Southwest Virginia, and at grore than that of all the other papers of Resnoke combined.

ROANOKE, VA., NOVEMBER 19, 1893.

As HAD been anticipated Admiral Mello's revolutionary tactics against President Peixto at Rio de Janeiro were but a mask to cover his real purpose of replacing an emperor over the Brazilian people. In this he has not the sympathy of the United States.

It seems from the latest report from Hawaii that all is quiet and peaceful, where it had been feared war and riot might have occurred within the time of departure of the last two steamers bringing the news from that place. It would seem also that the criticism of the instructions, which it was alleged President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham had given to Minister Willis, were too premature. Thus far the action of the minister has been directly contrary to what the newspaper reporter had anticipated it would be, and they cannot but feel chagrined over their false prophecy of what those instructions were. As thus far the relations are all amicable it is generally believed that no disturbance will follow. President Cleveland has again vindicated himslf.

WILL THE BUILDINGS REMAIN?

Those who were among the fortunate to visit the World's Fair during its reign of glory will be pleased to learn that a movement is on foot in Chicago, engineered by C. W. Caryl, of Philadelphia, for maintaining the buildings in their present location and condition, with a view to the inauguration of another exposition next year. The idea is to leave the buildings intact and open them to the public again in May or June, with such exhibits as can be retained for that purpose and such others as may be secured in the meantime. Director of Works Burnham estimates that it would cost about $1,500,000 to care for the property, $3,5000,000 to run the Fair for another six months and $1,000,000 to close it, or a total outlay of $5,000,000. He counts on receipts from visitors of $15,000,000 and a clear profit of $10,000,000.

The Illinois State commissioners are unanimously in favor of the scheme, and the executive committee of the board of directors of the fair have adopted a resolution asking that the buildings be allowed to stand for an indefinite period. But thus far the South park commissioners appear to be stubbornly opposed to the project, and are insisting upon immediate repossession of the park in order that the work of its improvement may be proceeded with, and this, of course, would necessitate the early destruction or removal of the great structures by which it is now eccupied.

The question is still in abeyance, with the chances apparently against any reopening of the fair. It seems like vandal. ism to demolish the buildings, not only because of their architectural beauty, but because of the memorable associations with which they are identified, but unless some pressing popular de mand should arise for their preservation they are likely to go, though some of them may be reconstructed in other portions of the city. It is doubtful if the great expectations entertained by Mr. Burnham of another exposition next summer would be realized unless means can be devised for exhibiting a good deal more than the mere shell of

Now Convalescent. PULASKI, Nov. 18 .- All rumors reported by papers in adjacent towns about the smallpox are largely exaggerated, as there is but one case here, and that is in a mild form. The boy who has had the smallpox here is now convalescent and is able to cut and carry his own wood. There is no danger whatever now. The council held a meeting a few days ago and passed an ordinance that all citizens residing in this place should be allowed a limited time to be vaccinated, and if they had not complied within that time a fine of $1 to $5 would be imposed upon such persons according to the number of days aften the expired

The Agricultural and Mechanical College football team of Blacksburg played a match game with Randolph Macon Academy this afternoon, resulting in a score of 38 to 6 in favor of Randolph Macon Academy. The Blacksburg boys outweighed the home team considerably. With the exception of two or three long runs, the touchdowns were made by short line plays. The features of the game were, en Academy side, an eighty yard run by Ragiand on a feint wedge, and center work by Huott, Ramsey and Brown. Blacksburg interference was very effective. Best of feeling prevailed. Their best plays were made by Friend and Martin.

CASHIER MAY'S DISMISSAL.

None of the Bank of England Directors Involved in the Scandal.

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- The Economist

London, Nov. 18.—The Economist says in an article concerning rumors of irregularities in the Bank of England:

"The reaignation of Mr. May, chief cashier, was brought about owing to the character of certain transactions in securities with one or more trust companies which he sanctioned. In regard to these transactions, we understand that something graver than mere fault of judgment was connected. Mr. May, it would appear, not only exceeded his authority, but also acted in a manner which he must have known was contrary to the .egulations by which the bank is governed. For that offense he suffered.

"It would now be ungenerous to dwell upon the matter, and after all the question is whether the bank knowingly lent support to the companies whose financial methods proved to be of such a very dubious nature. That is the gravamen of the imperfectly formulated charges which one hears. It is satisfactory, therefore, to be able to say that as far as we can ascertain, such rumors are unfounded. As regards the responsibility of the directors, we believe that no greater responsibility attaches to the individual than to the whole board. Therefore we may lay aside the rumors of impending resignations."
